

From the Editor 2

History Commentary 3

Two young World War II airplane spotters kept watch from an eastern Washington Forest Service lookout.

By Richard J. Johnson

The Guns of Fort Worden 6

Life in Battery Ash for a National Guardsmen from Tacoma.

By Floyd Oles

A Witness to History 12

Ralph Chaplin: labor radical, poet, songwriter, editor...and curator.

By Maria Pascualy

From the Collection 16

“When a homeseeker arrives, he remains.”

Forest Reserves vs. Money for Schools 17

A look at how early decisions about public lands in Washington led to conflict between the state and federal governments.

By Linda Byers

A Lasting Legacy—Part II 23

Continuing the discussion of place name designations made by Lewis and Clark in the Pacific Northwest.

By Allen “Doc” Wesselius

Sea of Fire 32

The Great Seattle Fire of 1889 destroyed the waterfront business district but set off an enormous building boom.

By Kirk R. Davies

David Thompson’s Claims 38

Thompson’s three separate accounts of his journey to Astoria raise more questions than they answer.

By William Moreau

Columbia Reviews 44

Additional Reading 48