- There are other stories in this exhibit about people who moved to Washington to get away from people who treated them poorly, took away their liberty, or right to make choices for themselves.

What other stories can you find? Who else moved to Washington?

What object did they bring with them?

Why did they move to Washington?

Civil rights are not always easy to understand or put into words. Here are some examples of ways you may have used your civil rights today without knowing it!

- Did you say your opinion?
- Were you and your adult able to travel where you wanted?
- Were you treated the same as other museum visitors?

Try drawing how you used your civil rights today!
